12.7 Victoria

1. Victoria (Vic) has four modern and efficient trading ports and a number of non-trading regional ports. Three port authorities administer the commercial ports. The port of Melbourne is operated by a private consortium, while navigation is managed by the Victorian Ports Corporation Melbourne (VPCM). The ports of Westernport (Hastings) and Geelong are operated by private companies, with navigational oversight by Victorian Regional Channels Authority and the port of Portland is managed by another private company. The port authorities have their own websites detailed in the Port Details Table on p.246.

12.7.1 Victorian Ports Corporation Melbourne

1. VPCM is responsible for the operation of the Port of Melbourne. This includes the movement of shipping, managing various commercial wharves, in the port waters managed by Port of Melbourne.

12.7.2 Victorian Regional Channels Authority

1. The Victorian Regional Channels Authority (VRCA) is responsible for the management of the channels and in port waters at the Victorian regional ports:
 - Port of Geelong
 - Port of Hastings
 - Port of Portland

12.7.3 Vessel operations

Victorian Ports Corporation Melbourne

1. VPCM operates a 24 hour Vessel Traffic Service (VTS) covering the declared VTS area. The services provided include traffic organisation and information service designed to improve the safe and efficient movement of shipping in port waters. Melbourne VTS based at the Port Operations Control Centre is also an ordering point for all shipping services required for berthing and departure, including berth allocation and the ordering of tugs, linesmen, lines boats and pilots.
2. The Master and owner of a vessel are responsible for complying with Harbour Master's Directions which are published with the Port Information Guide on the VPCM website.

Port of Geelong

3. VRCA operates a 24 hour marine control service at Geelong to ensure the safe and efficient movement of shipping in the port waters of VRCA.
4. The master and owner of a vessel are responsible for complying with instructions as published in the Port Waters of Geelong Operating Handbook. The publication is available by post on request, or can be viewed at the VRCA website.
